ParT: look at the relationship, not just the particles

Pairwise physics helps decide how much attention one particle gives another.

1. Describe the pair

Examples of pair information

How far apart?

How is momentum shared?

What is their combined mass?

2. Learn the bias

Small learned network

Positive or negative score adjustment

Learned from training examples

3. Adjust attention

Less attention

More attention

Combined with the usual attention score